

PLANNING FUTURES

Join the conversation...

Planning Futures Events

Each year, Planning Futures holds a series of events including discussions, debates, roundtables and receptions.

Our events are attended by leading experts and senior politicians from across the political spectrum, as well as a large variety of stakeholders within the industry.

Highlights of the 2017 events series have included:

- An exclusive Housing White Paper briefing with the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government, the Rt. Hon Sajid Javid MP;
- Q and A with the (previous) Housing and Planning Minister, Gavin Barwell MP;
- Q and A with Deputy Mayor for London, James Murray;
- Q and A with Deputy Mayor for London, Jules Pipe.

Why you should become a member of Planning Futures

Planning Futures is unique in that it is the only think tank solely dedicated to Planning/Housing within the UK. Planning Futures offers a variety of benefits to its members, but overall it facilitates engagement at the highest level, provides unrivalled networking opportunities and a platform to engage and influence debate and policy within the sector.

As a member, you will join an exclusive and unique group of stakeholders which includes academics, civil servants, developers, lawyers, professional organisations, politicians (from National and Local Government) and third sector organizations.

Membership Benefits Include

- Two guaranteed places at each of our thought leadership breakfast events.
- Two annual members only receptions, with senior experts, key planning and development stakeholders and leading politicians.
- Invitations to all other Planning Futures events throughout your period of membership including report launches and events held at political Party conferences.
- Opportunities to sponsor our engagement and thought leadership events at reduced rates.

For more details of our membership packages and to join, please contact Hannah David

- By e mail at hannah@planningfutures.org
- By phone on 0203 019 1680

Planning Futures is a think tank dedicated to developing new ideas for planning in the UK. As we face ever growing pressures to build more homes, and deliver the infrastructure that our economy needs to thrive, it is essential that we get our planning policies right.

As the only think tank dedicated solely to this field, we offer an independent, pragmatic approach to planning issues. Our research programme is informed by our expert advisory board, and provides a strong evidence base for unlocking UK's development potential.

Our 2017 programme focuses on delivery through the planning system at local level. We will be making the case for properly resourced planning departments across England and for greater transparency, consistency and effectiveness in decision making by officers and at committee.

For more information on our work, please see our website: www.planningfutures.org

Further information on our research programme is available on request.

PLANNING FUTURES
A new conversation about planning

@PFpolicy

www.planningfutures.org